Brief Course Description

This course provides an introduction to the contemporary debates in the social sciences and their relevance to social interventions in the health and human services arena. The social sciences provide human services practitioners with theoretical and methodological frameworks for professional practice. Frameworks, informed by the discipline of sociology, connect important concepts such as class, race, sex and age to social inequalities.

Rationale

In order to change society, or even to participate effectively in it, some understanding of how society works is essential. Social Theory provides the theoretical underpinnings for the discipline of sociology and also includes many of the central ideas found in anthropology, politics, education, social psychology, international relations, cultural studies, social work and human services. At the broadest level, social or sociological theory increases our understanding of society by elucidating social inequality, difference and change.

Aims

This course aims to expose students to the wider social and cultural context in which health and human services operate, including an understanding of culture, globalisation, environmental sustainability and issues surrounding disadvantage.

Specifically, students will explore and examine:

1. the foundations of modern social theory and their applications to key social issues through three key paradigms underpinning sociological thought: Functionalism, Conflict Theory and Symbolic Interactionism;
 2. social inequalities such as class, race/ethnicity, sex/gender and age in the first few weeks of this course followed by the exploration of major social institutions such as the social construction of crime/deviance, education & employment, health/illness, marriage & religion; and
 3. themes of inequality on a global scale including globalisation & economics, cultures & subcultures and environmental movements & sustainability.

Learning Outcomes

After successfully completing this course you should be able to:

1. Summarise and compare the three key theoretical paradigms that explain social inequality and social change.
 2. Explain the contributing factors to social inequality and discuss the issues associated with social change.
 3. Summarise social theory approaches to society's problems and their relevance to professional human services practice.
 4. Use research skills to identify and access appropriate academic literature.
 5. Critically analyse social theories in relation to social issues and reflect on their application and relevance to the role of a developing human services practitioner.
 6. Apply and test theoretical understanding using stipulated assessment criteria.

Organisation and Teaching Strategies

Teaching methods will include a combination of face-to-face strategies such as interactive lectures, tutorials and workshops. Tutorials and workshops facilitate consolidation, discussion and application of knowledge from the lecture.

It is standard practice at Griffith College that lectures timetabled in lecture capture-enabled venues are recorded and made available to students on the relevant course site. Lecture Captured sessions are not intended as a substitute for a Lecture. Elements of the lecture may be edited from the Lecture Capture. Students are encouraged to attend the lectures in real time and use Lecture Capture as supplementary.

Class Contact Summary

Lectures: 2 hours per week (weeks 1 - 12).

Tutorials: 1 hour per week (weeks 1 -12).

Workshops: 1 hour per week (weeks 1 - 11).

Attendance

100% attendance is expected for all classes and to actively involve themselves in discussions. You are reminded that your attendance in class will be marked for all elements. To receive full attendance, you must be present in the classroom on all occasions.

You are expected to bring work completed at home to class for group and individual discussion. Further development of ideas is expected during tutorial time.

Preparation and Participation in Class

You are expected to complete your readings and review the lecture notes plus attempt any tutorial/workshop exercises before class so that each week you can actively contribute to your learning and the learning of others in your classes. You are expected to ask and answer questions and to initiate discussions and stimulate debate in group and class situations.

Consultation Times

Attendance during consultation times is optional and students are encouraged to use this extra help to enable you to meet the stated learning outcomes.

Course Materials

Lecture notes will be made available to you on the 1014HSV MyStudy course website on the Griffith College portal and you are advised to download or print these out and bring them to each class so that extra notes can be added.

Independent Study

Independent study requires that you spend time outside classes engaged in reviewing course materials available on the course site, completing readings, and undertaking research necessary to complete your assignments. Research includes reading the digitized readings, using library and internet facilities. For this 10 CP course, in addition to attending 4 hours of classes each week, you will need to spend at least 6 hours per week in your own time.

Program Progression

Students are reminded that satisfactory Program Progression requires that attendance in classes is maintained at equal to or greater than 80%, and that GPA is maintained at equal to or greater than 3.5 (Australian students) or equal to or greater than 4.0 (International students) in any trimester [please see Griffith College Policy Library - Program Progression Policy - for more information].

Academic Integrity

Griffith College is committed to maintaining high academic standards to protect the value of its qualifications. Academic integrity means acting with the values of honesty, trust, fairness, respect and responsibility in learning, teaching and research. It is important for students, teachers, researchers and all staff to act in an honest way, be responsible for their actions, and show fairness in every part of their work. Academic integrity is important for an individual's and the College's reputation.

All staff and students of the College are responsible for academic integrity. As a student, you are expected to conduct your studies honestly, ethically and in accordance with accepted standards of academic conduct. Any form of academic conduct that is contrary to these standards is considered a breach of academic integrity and is unacceptable.

Some students deliberately breach academic integrity standards with intent to deceive. This conscious, pre-meditated form of cheating is considered to be one of the most serious forms of fraudulent academic behaviour, for which the College has zero tolerance and for which penalties, including exclusion from the College, will be applied.

However, Griffith College also recognises many students breach academic integrity standards without intent to deceive. In these cases, students may be required to undertake additional educational activities to remediate their behaviour and may also be provided appropriate advice by academic staff.

As you undertake your studies at Griffith College, your lecturers, tutors and academic advisors will provide you with guidance to understand and maintain academic integrity; however, it is also your responsibility to seek out guidance if and when you are unsure about appropriate academic conduct.

In the case of a breach of academic integrity made against a student he or she may request the guidance and support of a Griffith College Student Learning Advisor or Student Counsellor.

Please ensure that you are familiar with the Griffith College Academic Integrity Policy; this policy provides an overview of some of the behaviours that are considered breaches of academic integrity, as well as the penalties and processes involved when a breach is identified.

For further information please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy on the Griffith College website – Policy Library.
